Hi, no problem...your German is much better than my Romanian 😊

Today I went to VW and bought battery under the seat. Most of VW said they have to exchange them for that necessarily has to do a certain setting for an otherwise not recognize the system load. I do not think such a thing, I think they say this just to come to the service to pay, what do you think?

How old is the battery?

I would try to recharge the battery with a charger and if the battery will brake down again, you can change the battery later. I would not change the battery right now, 'cause you do not know what the VW-mechanics did or did not... 😊
