

Frage an die Profis

This is would my dealer told me, but then again who knows. But for the different set ups there have to be some sort of sensors built in to measure the vehicle and its current position, ie if it is angled or raised/lowered at the back/front. I looked through Etko for a while and could not find anything, maybe you have more luck. Still waiting for the Can BUs solution from Ross Tech fpr the Touareg to see if more can be changed.
