

PC an Board

Beitrag von „jonee“ vom 26. August 2004 um 12:51

If you plan on using the office suite or any program that shows small or medium size fonts, you have to have a VGA screen, because the resolution and sharpness of a normal screen is very bad.

So the existing NAVI screen is out, cause it's no VGA. So you need to find a spot to place the extra vga screen. The only option in front is the center area above the NAVI.

The roof is not possible due to the fact that there's too much already. You can place it in the back just like holger.ihle, but then you have to go to the back to work.

And there's still the input. Keyboard, Mouse, where are you gonna put those?

If you really want a complete mobile office, consider a chauffeur and install your mobile office in the back 😊 . If it's just for entertainment consider sup44's solution.

I'll go for the latter! Please keep us posted!