

Cayenne Turbo brakes on a Touareg ???

Beitrag von „stv951“ vom 27. April 2006 um 16:27

Hello all,

Sorry but I don't speak German. ANYONE HILFE ???

I am new to this board, and I have a question for anyone who can help.

A friend of mine has a Touareg V6, and is interested in putting some nice red Cayenne TT calipers and disks on his car. Since these cars are quite similar, I was wondering if they fit straight on ?

Thanks for your help

Steve

Blockierte Grafik: [http://www.theautobahn.com/forum/images/s...user\_online.gif] [Blockierte Grafik: <http://www.theautobahn.com/forum/images/buttons/reputation.gif>]

---

Beitrag von „Günther“ vom 10. Mai 2006 um 18:53

Hi Steve,

yes Cayenne calipers fit perfectly to the Touareg, they are the same, except the Porsche brakes have the nice red finish.

I'am also thinking of changing them, we already put them onto mine at a Porsche mech to see if they fit.

Only thing which confuses me is that there is a official VW paper which says, you are loosing your warranty if you use painted calipers, red or whatever but not the original black. This is because they can't guarantee the full brake functionality in extreme conditions due to the different heat distribution with other paint as their original black one.

And the paper even states the order to dealers, that they have to change the calipers if they are not original and not giving out the car before this change !!

So, decide by yourself 😊

Mine is silver with 22" wheels and the red Cayenne calipers look f***ing good, so I maybe go for them 😊

regards
Gunther